As a history and political science major, interning with museum staff was a great experience. Working with the Manuscript Department allowed me to explore possible career paths. More than anything else, my internship gave me hands-on experience in research and archival work. This opportunity helped me to establish a clearer picture of my interests, my future career goals, and provided professional work experience.

Meet Lexi Davis, 2018 Manuscripts intern, presently interning for a U.S. Senator in Washington, D.C.
Dear Friend,

I am a looker-on except to education. On that, I am persistent, in and out of season, before all sorts of audiences.” This quote is just one example of President Hayes’ support of education for all citizens. President Hayes is known for his support of education and the industrial trades. As the president of the Slater Fund (designed to give scholarships to black students), he supported including mechanical trades into the curriculum. He passed a resolution in Congress making it clear that the United States was a great industrial nation and education of individuals was the key to equal opportunity for all.

As the superintendent of Fremont City Schools and fellow admirer of President Hayes’ legacy, please join me in supporting this year’s Gateway to the Future 2019-20 Campaign.

Jon C. Detwiler
Superintendent
Fremont City Schools

Gateway to the Future began in 2009 to make up for budget cuts in state funding. Your support of the nation’s first presidential library will help preserve our history and educate generations to come. Among other priorities, this year’s campaign will support Curriculum Connections for visiting classrooms and two new exhibits: Press & the Presidency and Ohio Urban Myths & Legends.

Help us reach our goal of $120,000 in 2018-19
